

A new approach to IT service management

Developed over more than a decade in IT within the financial sector, AWI Consultancy's full, end-to-end service is built around a pyramid concept, focusing first on the critical foundations of application and operating system stability at the base, through right-sized infrastructure, strong controls, effective processes and (your most important asset) right-placed people at the top.

Individually, our products allow us to fully tailor the service, specific to our clients' needs
Together, they form a powerful, new and fully integrated approach to IT service management

SafeShore

When you know that off shoring is a serious option for your organisation, but you don't have the in-house expertise, SafeShore provides the solution. From building a tailored assessment profile, to sourcing, interviewing and recruiting the right people in a remote location, then managing the transition to get your new staff onboard, AWI have the knowledge and experience you need.

When you offshore, what happens to your service levels?

We'll help you build the best remote teams, so they stand the test of time.

ProStream

As the wealth of technology in the market place becomes more complex, so does the process and procedure around making it all work smoothly. ProStream, AWI's approach to improving the way IT departments interact, both with other technology groups and the businesses they underpin, will help you to streamline your day to day technology processes, freeing up your IT staff to do the job you pay them for.

How much time does your team waste on procedures?

We'll help you get the most efficient processes in place for your IT staff, so their time isn't wasted ticking boxes.

KeyControl

An IT audit can be a stressful experience, even for firms with impeccable track records. With our experience of controls, compliance and audit in enterprise environments, KeyControl offers a systematic pre-audit review of your estate. We examine your current controls structure and the tools you are using to pass your audit and provide straightforward, proactive strategies to set the stage for a successful risk review.

Will you pass your IT audit this year?

We'll help you to put the strongest controls in place, without reducing your ability to operate.

InfraSwitch

We've all heard buzz-words, such as 'Carbon Footprint' and 'Green IT' but, through InfraSwitch - AWI's detailed analysis and redesign of your IT infrastructure - we can help identify the best options, including consolidation and virtualisation, and guide you through planning and managing the switch to a streamlined IT environment, that works for your business and your bottom line.

Are you using your hardware at full capacity, giving you the highest return on investment?

We'll help you cut costs, not system performance, to improve your ROI in a way that's sustainable.

LevelBase

As reliance on technology increases, so does expectation of system availability. At the same time, instability can be introduced into the environment, as organisations move swiftly to reduce costs, or improve competitive advantage, through the adoption of new technologies. Using step by step analysis and controlled action planning, LevelBase provides a sound methodology for improving application and operating system stability.

How can you improve your environment if you're always fire fighting?

We'll help you improve stability, so you can consolidate while times are hard and expand later, when the time is right.
